Burnham and Maple Win Turkey Flats Run

Michael Burnham and Jessica Maple beat the heat and everyone else at the Turkey Flats Trail Run on a beautiful cool morning on Pinyon Mesa. The top male and female finishers managed steep climbs, rocky descents, mud and down trees to come out on top of the 30-runner field in the 9.6 mile race. It was the first time for both on this course and both found the footing tricky. Michael reported taking three tumbles and Jessica took one dive. It didn't slow them down enough for any of us to catch them, though. Several others tried the diving for victory strategy and got the blood but not the glory.

The flowers were in fabulous peak form as is usual for this race. Some runners earned extra credit by circling around the far side of Fruita Reservoir #1. They got into some extra mud on that route maybe not realizing there would be plenty awaiting them soon enough on the lower Haypress trail. Many thanks to the mystery logsman who cut through 4 or 5 of the worst down trees sometime between 7 PM the night before and race time. They were across the trail when I marked the course in the evening but gone when we hit the trail the next morning. Nice!
